Dear Sir,

I wish to protest against the proposal to build houses on greenbelt land around Leamington and Milverton. If additional houses are necessary they should be built on pockets of land in or near the town.

If hundreds of new homes are built is it certain that buyers will be found for them? It is increasingly difficult for people to obtain mortgages, and I doubt very much whether all the present property available is occupied.

We certainly do not want more shops out of town whilst the present ones are closing one by one.

If greenbelt land is used for building we shall never get it back and will not be thanked by future generations for despoiling our countryside.

Yours faithfully,
